

Welcome to the University of Montana!

UM's Wildlife Biology program is ranked #1 in North America
for faculty research and productivity.

The GLI is a community of students making a world of difference, reaching across disciplines to explore global challenges through collaboration and hands-on experience.

National Environmental Education Foundation | 2001 Report Summary

When the report for particular strategies is not available, what is reported is that Americans need further education about the environment.
